Phatik heard her words, and sobbed out loud: "Uncle, I was just going home; but they dragged me back again." The fever rose very high, and all that night the boy was delirious. Bishamber brought in a doctor. Phatik opened his eyes flushed with fever, and looked up to the ceiling, and said vacantly: "Uncle, have the holidays come yet? May I go home?" Bishamber wiped the tears from his own eyes, and took Phatik's lean and burning hands in his own, and sat by him through the night. The boy began again to mutter. At last his voice became excited: "Mother," he cried, "don't beat me like that! Mother! I am telling the truth!"

1. What had the aunt said that Phatik heard and began to weep?
2. Why does Phatik begin to mutter ... "don't beat me like that mother ..."?
3. Bishamber sat by Phatik through the night. What light does this throw on this character?

Question 4

Read the extract given below and answer the question that follows:

She did not wish to, but in our distress
What choice had we? A dreadful loneliness
Came over me when she had gone. My mind
Ran at high speed, my body crept behind.
I saw the shadowy forms of people, some
Were ghosts, some scarecrows, all were wordless dumb
Arms stretched straight out, shoulder to dangling hand;
It took some time for me to understand
The friction on their burns caused so much pain

1. Why was the doctor's wife reluctant to leave him?
2. 'My mind/Ran at high speed, my body crept behind'. Explain.
3. How did people look like? What had happened to them?
